

Sarah Tradewell – Member at Large

Sarah has been involved in the arts practically since birth - in fact, she bought her first violin with awards won from the piano and voice sections of her local music festival. Since then, she has gone on to perform with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra on viola, Celtic band Black Angus on fiddle, Blue Bridge Repertory Theatre as Music Director and actor/musician, and various other freelance performances around the island. In addition to a busy performance schedule, Sarah is currently working on a joint JD/MBA degree at the University of Victoria.
